Symon Communications and SuiteLinq™ Embark on Joint Product Integration

EXTON, PA (February 23, 2010) – Symon Communications, a 30-year provider of in-venue visual communications solutions, has reached an agreement with SuiteLinq, Inc. that will enable both companies to deliver integrated digital services in hotels and similar environments. A leading provider of integrated software and hardware for managing the collection, design, scheduling and delivery of digital content to a broad array of visual solutions, Symon will interface with SuiteLinq’s on-site hospitality platforms that include in-room desktop computers, IPTV services, laptop access portals, and mobile devices. Combined, the two companies’ services create digital environments with multiple guest touch points in hotels that are capable of delivering a variety of content and interactive services.

“Symon is very pleased to be working with SuiteLinq.” says Charles Ansley, Symon’s President and CEO. “We see the SuiteLinq relationship as a tremendous opportunity to extend the immersive visual experience beyond a venue’s public spaces.”

SuiteLinq’s CEO, Joseph Mustilli, adds that, “The ability to deploy a truly integrated digital content delivery system via multiple platforms in hotels is an industry first. From the moment the guest walks into the door, to the comfort of their room, to the restaurant and lounge areas, Symon and SuiteLinq can deliver on-site commerce and relevant content that enhances the guest experience while also driving additional revenue for the property.”

SuiteLinq will be exhibiting with Symon Communications at the 2010 Digital Signage Expo in Las Vegas, February 24 through 25. For more information about SuiteLinq, contact Darrin Davis, Vice President of Sales, at: 703-953-2624, or via email at ddavis@suitelinq.com
